Secretary Houston Says Neither This Nor Other Nations Have Adequate Arrangements for Storing Supplies

(Associated Press)
Washington, Oct. 20.—Secretary of the Treasury Houston, addressing the bankers' convention on the farmers' appeal to the government for help today, said the situation was due to the failure of this nation and other nations to provide for the storage and marketing of farm products. He said that every producer was willing that other products should decline except his own. He said that some of the remedies offered are suicidal. "The blame rests with the quiescent public," said Mr. Houston.

Aztec Relics.
Many interesting relics have been found recently of the lost race or prehistoric people who lived in the great community dwellings now in ruins near Aztec, New Mexico. The evidences of a surprisingly high civilization include curious sandals woven from yucca leaves, fibre and cotton. The people delighted in ornaments of shells cut into discs and beads of turquoise and shell. There are Jasper arrow points, bone awls and needles. The basket weaving was also of a high artistic quality. The most interesting of these relics is the coiled pottery made by rolling long strips of clay and winding them round and round as is done in coiled basketry. The ancient people who made these articles are believed to have been the original cliff dwellers.—Boys' Life.

Vienna Not on the Danube.
Vienna is popularly misunderstood to be on "the beautiful blue Danube," but that mighty stream, in its long course to the Black sea, really encircles the city some miles from its center. A canal winds through the heart of the city and connects with the Danube below the Prater, Vienna's great playground.

BANKERS DISCUSSING TAXATION AND FINANCE

Washington, Oct. 20.—Reduction of federal taxes, co-operation of the bankers in solving the problems of the railroads and economy in government and private expenditures were urged in the annual report of Richard S. Hawes, president of the American Bankers' Association, which was presented at the opening session of the association's 46th convention.

Other recommendations made by Mr. Hawes were that the transportation act be amended so that bankers and business men could become directors of railroads, that agriculture and foreign trade be encouraged and that steps be taken to relieve the present industrial unrest.

Taking up the tax question, Mr. Hawes said the need was not only for a reduction of federal taxes, but also for a most careful supervision of the expenditures of the proceeds of the taxes.

"A slogan recently coined," he said, "is appealing: 'More business in government; less government in business.'"

Mr. Hawes declared that "no tax itself should interfere with the accumulation of wealth, or the development of the industrial life of the nation."

"Any tax system which discourages savings, which discounts accumulation of capital, is to be deplored," he said, "for all capital is used and enjoyed primarily by society at large and not particularly by the one in whose legal title its ownership rests."

Mr. Hawes hailed the enactment of the transportation act as "a distinct financial victory." He declared that a vast sum of money was needed for the railroads and that this could be made available only through the co-operation of the financiers of the country, encouraging the investing public and guiding their judgment.

"The passage of the transportation act," he said, "has taken railroad securities out of the highly speculative field and stabilized conditions so that just returns on investment may be received and proper service rendered the nation."

Bankers and business men, he continued, should be permitted to serve on the boards of directors of the roads, regardless of their dealings with the railroads, but they should be charged with full responsibility in their duties.

Mr. Hawes sounded an optimistic note regarding industrial unrest. He expressed the opinion that there was needless alarm that America would see changes in its industrial society similar to those undertaken in some other countries.

"With a prospective decrease in prices and increase in the disposition of industrial and labor leaders to recognize their mutual obligations and duties, both to each other and the public," Mr. Hawes continued, "we may reasonably look forward, without alarm, to better adjustment of the forces of labor and capital."

"Labor by fomenting strikes, encouraging disagreement with employers is, in fact, striking at the heart of its own future progress, and impairing the prosperity of the country. Capital should recognize the results of the toilers and improve working conditions and wages in ratio to the production and investment. Every man should be free to work out his own salvation and not be bound by the shackles of organizations to his detriment."

Declaring that production in the country is now somewhat above the pre-war level and showing indications of improvement, Mr. Hawes said the real difficulty has been in unbalanced production. The diversion of productive forces into certain restricted channels demanded by the war still is having its effect, he continued, and the nation has not yet been able to re-align these forces so that the supply and demand of goods are normally uniform.

"Increased production," Mr. Hawes went on to say, "is not nearly so much a cause for concern as is more economical consumption. The orgy of foolish extravagance, the speculative consumption which has prevailed in the United States and is yet too largely evident, must cease if we are to obtain a permanently strong position in world trade."

In recommending the encouragement and development of agriculture, Mr. Hawes declared that all bankers and business men should know that less than 30 cents of every $100 spent by the government last year was expended for the development of agriculture.

"It is the banker's duty as a citizen and financier to realize and encourage this source of our wealth; to lend counsel and assistance and to regard the farm in its true importance to our economic existence."

Stressing the importance of the nation's foreign trade, Mr. Hawes said that without hampering the requirements of American industry and business, the bankers must find a means of extending liberal credit for foreign trade without further inflating the American credit structure. He suggested that this be done by interesting the investing public in securities properly protected.

"Our future foreign trade possibilities lie largely with the saving America," said he.

Of the operation of the federal reserve system, Mr. Hawes said: "Steadily the process of pushing out war paper and substituting commercial paper is going on and shortly we may expect that the new circulation will be placed as intended, on live commercial paper and gold."

ROTARY DAY AT THE STATE FAIR

To Which Newspaper Men and the Commercial Secretaries of the State Have Been Invited

Jacksonville, Oct. 20.—The Jacksonville Rotary Club has planned a gala day for Florida newspaper men, Florida Rotarians and secretary of Florida commercial bodies. The occasion will be the All Florida Day at the Florida State Fair and Exposition, Tuesday, November 23rd.

There are 139 newspapers, large and small in the state and every one of them is devoted to the service of the community, the county and the state in which it is published. The same thing may be said of the secretaries of the commercial organizations, and as for the Rotary, the foundation stone of this international club is service. Hence in this three-cornered meeting the visitors and the hosts will be at once on common ground.

A full program of entertainment is being prepared and includes, in addition to the attractions of the fair, an oyster roast at the country club and a barbecue by bon-fire near the fair grounds. No effort will be spared to make the day a perfect success and a large attendance is expected. The attendance of the newspaper men is expected to rival, or perhaps excel the annual meetings of the state press association and Florida editors and publishers will meet friends and old-time associates that they have not seen for years here on this occasion.

SHELVING AN OLD SUPERSTITION

Thirteenth Annual Marion County Fair Will be the Most Lucky of the Series

The thirteenth annual Marion County Fair will be held this year Nov. 23-27, and the fair officials have no superstition about its being the thirteenth. They are ready "to tell the world" that this year's fair is going to be one of the best yet held in this most versatile of counties. With a larger premium list, an increase in the number of community exhibits and in the collective farm exhibits and promises of the largest showing of swine ever made in this county, horse and mule racing, and with Miller Bros' shows to furnish the carnival attractions, there will be a full program for each of the four days. President J. C. Johnson, of the Marion County Fair and Agricultural Association, has called a meeting of the directors for Friday afternoon to complete all arrangements.

It will probably be necessary, according to E. C. Bennett, secretary of the fair association, to make some changes in the exhibition buildings and livestock pens in order to accommodate the increased number of exhibitors. New features this year will be exhibits made by the county boys' sweet potato clubs, fat pig club, sow and litter club, special Poland-China and Hampshire prizes, five-acre corn contest, one-acre beggarweed contest, and a pig club contest for the negro boys.

This year the fair association has decided to abandon the racing of all outside horses. There will be races for Marion county horses only, and the mule races. The mule races were a new thing last year, and were a scream from start to finish. The mules are ridden by prominent men of the county. Some mules and some riders!

The officers of the fair association this year are: J. C. Johnson, president, Ocala; J. K. Christian, vice-president, McIntosh; E. C. Bennett, secretary and treasurer, Ocala, and J. H. Talton, manager, Anthony. In the premium list just issued the announcement is made that "the valuable fair grounds, with all the equipment, has been donated to Marion county, and the Marion County Fair is for the people, owned by the people and operated by the people."
